Moravian College Celebrates Another Record Breaking Fundraising Year

Susanne I. Shaw, vice president for institutional advancement, announced that voluntary gift revenues to Moravian College totaled $4,384,195 at the close of the 1999-2000 fiscal year on June 30. The 1999-2000 Fund achieved a new high level of $1,629,635, an increase of $225,000 over last year and double the Annual Fund total of just five years ago. Total gifts from alumni and trustees were $984,336 or 60% of this year's Fund. Giving by faculty and staff increased by 4% over the previous year, exceeding their goal while achieving a record $50,908.

The 1999-2000 Moravian Theological Seminary Annual Fund totaled $119,113. The big news was an increase of 4.5% in alumni participation, bringing the participation total to 47.5%. Donors to the Seminary's Annual Fund from all constituencies number 394, which is an all-time high and an impressive 25% increase over the prior year. This increase makes it likely that Moravian Theological Seminary will move into the top five seminaries in the U.S. in alumni giving.

Highlights of the 1999-2000 Annual Fund:

- Student callers and managers who staffed the on-campus phonathon raised $233,932 during ten weeks of calling this year, and had a pledge fulfillment rate of 87%.
- Combined Annual Fund

Moravian College: On the Move and under Construction

Its impossible to walk around the College campus these days and not notice some very exciting and important changes underway. With the facilities master plan as the guide, Moravian College is boldly moving forward on a number of needed improvements, including new construction and renovation of the Admission Building and Colonial Hall, expansion of the HUB dining facilities, the initial planning and design of a new academic complex, dramatic new signage and landscaping, and the giving by reunion classes totaled $202,280 with the Class of 1970 achieving the highest dollar total.

- Seventy-four percent of the alumni who gave to the Annual Fund in 1998-1999 made gifts once more to the 1999-2000 Annual Fund.

possible development of a landscaped median strip in Main Street from Locust Street to Elizabeth Avenue.

Such improvements will strengthen Moravian's ability to continue to attract and retain students of talent and merit, and

- A new gift club, the President's Circle of Excellence, requiring Annual Fund gifts of $5,000 or more, attracted 41 members.
- GOLD, a new gift recognition program for Graduates of the Last Decade, completed the year with 43 members.
- A successful example of specialized fund raising is represented by the many donors who added $15,510 to the Charlotte Newcombe Scholarship Fund. The fund benefits mature women students enrolled in Continuing and Graduate Studies programs.
- The Senior Class Gift Program and the Class of 2000 added $11,170 to the scholarship for seniors established in 1999. The first award will be made to a senior in the 2001 term.
- Six new endowed funds, totaling in excess of $350,000, were established at Moravian Theological Seminary.

“Many good things happen at Moravian thanks to trustees, alumni, faculty, staff, administrators, friends, and students who contribute to the Annual Fund, to the endowment, and for special projects,” said Susanne.

A major challenge for the 2000-2001 Annual Fund year will be to significantly improve the level of alumni giving, particularly College alumni, in both dollars and participation. According to Bertie Knisely, director of alumni relations, this requires two major efforts in which all members of the campus community can help. “First, we can reinforce in our current students the importance of their financial support as alumni. Second, and just as important, we must engage alumni in the life of the institution.” According to Bertie, the faculty has a particularly important role in advancing our efforts with alumni. “Alumni can serve as guest lecturers, as mentors and as meaningful role models for students. They want to give back to Moravian. Whether that happens during the admission process, through career services, or in the classroom, it will be all of us, all the people who are part of Moravian’s everyday life, who will make it likely that alumni support will grow.”

Memorial Service for Rosemary Bortz to Be Held

The Music Department will hold a Memorial Service for Rosemary Bortz, former music library assistant, on Thursday, September 14, at 11:30 a.m. in Peter Hall on South Campus. All are invited to pay their respects and remember our former colleague.

First Friday Get-Together for 2000-2001 a Success

“Thanks to the LinC Committee for sponsoring the first of our monthly Friday get-togethers for faculty and administrative staff,” said Clarke Chapman, professor of religion. “It was very enjoyable for all, and was a great beginning for our new semester and new curriculum.”

The dates for the remaining get-togethers are:

- 2000
  - October 6
  - November 3
  - December 1
- 2001
  - January 19
  - February 2
  - March 2
  - April 6

Sponsors are still being sought for the remaining events. If your department or office wishes to sponsor one, please contact Clarke Chapman at extension 1410.

Bulletin

News for the Information Bulletin is welcome from all departments. Any news pertaining to administration, faculty, and staff may be sent to:

The Bulletin is usually published twice monthly with a deadline of 12:00 p.m. on Thursdays. Call Chris at ext. 1362 to confirm.

Religious Life Offerings at the College and Seminary

The Chaplain's Office extends an invitation to the College and Seminary community to attend its weekly religious program offerings. Every week there are two worship opportunities in Borhek Chapel. Each Saturday afternoon, at 4:30 p.m., Rev. Charles Norman, Catholic chaplain, will hold weekly Mass. Confessions will be heard at 4:00 p.m.. Each Sunday at 6:30 p.m. the Rev. Christain Giesler, chaplain of the College and Seminary, will lead the weekly Chapel Service.

On Wednesdays at the Seminary a weekly Eucharist Service is offered. Services are held in the Saal of the Bahnson Center and begin at 11:30 a.m. The weekly community worship service is held each Thursday at 11:30 a.m. While these services are held in the Seminary building, they are open to the entire community.

If you have any questions about any of the services, please contact the Chaplain's Office at extension 1583.

Textbook Authored by Dana Dunn Published

Dana Dunn, associate professor of psychology, and chair of the Department of Psychology, had his textbook, Statistics and Data Analysis for the Behavioral Sciences, published by McGraw-Hill in August. Based on Dana's 12 years of teaching statistics at Moravian, the book combines the quantitative aspects of statistics with written explanations of what the results of statistical tests mean in ways that students will understand, learn from, and adopt in their studies. Dana wrote the book for psychology students, but it can also be used by students studying sociology, education, or other social-behavioral science disciplines.

Dana's book teaches the theory behind statistics and the analysis of numerical data through a practical, hands-on approach. The cover design, fonts, and many of the graphics are based on the American Arts and Crafts style, a feature meant to render the often-forbidding topic of statistics more accessible. There are six Appendices, one of which gives students a refresher on basic math and algebra and discusses ways to overcome math anxiety. Other appendices introduce qualitative (non-math based) approaches to research, teach students how to conduct an independent research project using statistics, and advise them about writing research papers incorporating statistical information. By reading the book, students will learn how to select an appropriate test, how to collect data for research, how to perform calculations in a step-by-step manner, how to be intelligent consumers of statistical information, and how to write up and report results in the style used by professional psychologists and other researchers/educators. To emphasize the real utility of statistics, chapters open with "decision trees" regarding using concepts and end with concrete project exercises designed to illustrate key concepts. Most projects allow students to conduct research on their own lives to draw personalized meaning from statistics.

The book is supported by a web site (www.mhhe.com.dunn), as well as ancillary works designed to help students and faculty use ideas presented in the text. Dr. Suzanne Mannes, a cognitive psychologist who teaches at the University of Delaware, wrote a Student Study Guide, an Instructor's Manual, and a Test-Bank based on Dana's book. Statistics and Data Analysis for the Behavioral Sciences builds on themes and pedagogical strategies Dana developed for his earlier research methods book, The Practical Researcher: A Student Guide to Conducting Psychological Research (McGraw-Hill, 1999).

The Bulletin is now accessible on the Moravian College Web site. Please visit the site at www.moravian.edu/NewsInfo/bulletin/Bulletin.htm accommodate an enrollment that is increasing even sooner than anticipated. Coupled with plans to realize the construction of an academic complex in the near future, making sound capital improvements and improving "curb appeal" now helps Moravian remain competitive in the marketplace, and continue as a respected institution for liberal arts education and an attractive investment for donors.

Colonial Connector Building

Most noticeable is the construction, begun in June, of a four-story facility that will finally join the current Admission Building and Colonial Hall into a new, united Colonial Hall at the corner of Main and Elizabeth Streets. This "connector" will include an elevator for access to all four floors of the buildings, and ADA compliant restrooms on each floor. An entrance on the east side of the connector will give ground floor entrance to non-admission visitors from the redesigned parking lot between Colonial and the Alumni House.

The connector will serve as an administrative "hub" that will provide easy access for students, faculty, staff, and visitors to the president's and academic deans' offices, two new conference/meeting rooms, and the development, campaign, finance, human resources, and business operations.

The new Admission Office will have a striking entrance in the center of the new connector designed to impress prospective students and their parents and welcome them into an inviting Admission reception area. The first floor renovations will include the addition of private interview rooms, and a section to house the financial aid department, which will be easily accessible to students and parents through a separate entrance, close to but separate from the Admission entrance.

Other changes to the present Admission Building include adding a full second floor to house admission counselors.

The HUB

The addition to the HUB dining hall will add about 90 more seats to the facility. This project also includes the replacement of the air-conditioning units for the entire dining hall area. The new dining and portico areas provide nice reception areas for alumni, visitors, staff, and friends.

This addition, which was started on June 1, opened for dinner on September 11. There are a few small details that need to be completed inside the addition (such as metal grills for the heat registers, window treatments and completion of the work to the new a/c system), but these did not affect the opening of the room. The new exterior walkway and seat wall area will have landscaping work started later this month. New light bollards will replace the temporary ones along the sidewalk as soon as they are received.

Academic Complex

Moravian is moving closer towards making a new academic teaching and office complex a reality. For over a year, a committee of faculty, students, administrators, and staff have been planning the appropriate programming for a new academic complex.

Planned to sit between Collier Hall of Science and Hauptert Union Building, this will be a technologically advanced classroom building containing approximately 14 new classrooms (including tiered ones). All classrooms will be smart classrooms, with a computer station for the instructor, selected multimedia equipment to match the use of the room, and a ceiling-mounted projector. Others will include student computer stations. One classroom is planned as a mock K-12 experiential teaching space.

Alaskan Banker Creates Scholarship Fund at Moravian Theological Seminary

Elmer E. Rasmuson, former president and chairman of the National Bank of Alaska, donated $50,000 to create an endowed scholarship fund at Moravian Theological Seminary. Rasmuson made the gift in memory of his close friend Dr. C. Earl Albrecht who died in 1997. Albrecht was a 1926 graduate of Moravian College and a 1928 graduate of the Seminary. He and Rasmuson served together on the board of regents of the University of Alaska at a time when Albrecht was instrumental in establishing and implementing the first public health system in the Territory of Alaska.

The Albrecht Fund provides awards to qualified students at the Seminary with first preference given to students from Alaska. Lyn Trodahl Chynoweth '68, the chair of the Seminary board of trustees, proposed this new fund on a recent trip to Alaska. At that time, she visited with Elmer Rasmuson's son Edward, the current chairman of National Bank of Alaska.

Alumni Association Announces 2000-2001 Alumni Fellows

The Moravian College Alumni Association is pleased to announce the 2000-01 Alumni Fellows. The students are Brian Corvino '02, Julie Koehler '01, Keri Schantz '01, Laurie Sibbach '01, and Katherine Warren '01.

The association received over 25 applications from exceptionally well-qualified students, all of whom showed impressive academic achievements and noteworthy personal contributions to campus life. Each fellow received an award certificate and a check for $750.00 at the Freshman Banquet on Sunday, August 27, in Johnston Hall.

Moravian Mourns the Passing of Professor Lloyd L. Burkhart

Lloyd L. Burkhart, senior professor emeritus of English, died on July 14. He was 81 years old. Lloyd received his B.A. from Franklin and Marshall College, and both his M.A. and Ph.D. from Harvard University. He married Esther T. Bachman in 1942 and they had three children and three grandchildren.

Lloyd joined the faculty of Moravian College in 1949. "Lloyd was one of a strong, devoted core of scholars-teachers who played a vital role in that transformation," said George Diamond, professor of English and chair of the Department of English. "As chair of the Division of Humanities, English Department chair, chair of the Honors Committee, as a sponsor of the 4-1-4 academic calendar and the Liberal Education Guidelines, and as chair of the subcommittee that developed Add-Venture, Lloyd was among those who advocated and fought for curricular programs that would enrich Moravian, bring it up to par with its sister colleges, and transform it into a modern institution of higher learning." He was recognized for these efforts as the first recipient of the Lindback Teaching Award and by being named senior professor of the College.

Student Awarded Scholarship by the German Society of Pennsylvania

Rebecca May '02 is the recipient of a scholarship offered by the German Society of Pennsylvania. All undergraduate students from the Greater Delaware Valley are eligible apply for this outstanding recognition. Rebecca was awarded $2,000. This marks the first time a Moravian College student with a concentration in German has won this award. Rebecca is a major in elementary education with a concentration in German, and holds a 4.0 cumulative average.

John Hopkins Enjoys Another Triumphant Year

Moravian College recently completed its fourth year of partnership with Johns Hopkins University's Center for Talented Youth. This year, Moravian hosted more than 500 students from grades six to eleven. Participants took part in a three-week course in subjects such as exercise physiology, engineering design, america in the cold war, logic, computer science, and the Renaissance.

This program brings students from all over the world to our campus and offers an unusual educational experience, one geared both to the students' high abilities and to their need for peers who share their academic abilities and their love of learning. Dick Claussen, coordinator of academic camps and special programs, coordinates the program.

Men's Basketball Team Tours Italy

For the sixth time in Jim Walker's 21-year tenure as head men's basketball coach at Moravian College, the Greyhounds went on a tour of a foreign country. The Men's basketball team toured Italy from August 18-27. They played three games in Rome and toured the country as a cultural experience for the team members. "Going overseas to play teams is fairly common and a great cultural experience for the players," said Jim Walker, professor of physical education and head basketball coach. "Our players met a lot of people as well as saw a beautiful country and historical sites."

The team took 14 players on the trip who were members of the varsity and junior varsity teams last season. The Greyhounds had a 10-14 overall record a year ago and, due to NCAA rules, could not take incoming freshmen with them on the trip. The team's last trip overseas was in 1997 when they toured Ireland. Walker and the Greyhounds have also taken trips to Scandinavia, England/Ireland/Scotland, Germany/Holland/Belgium and Sweden. The NCAA allows colleges to make trips overseas once every three years. The official first day of practice for the 2000-01 season is Saturday, October 21. The Greyhounds will open their 2000-01 at a tournament in Salem, Virginia with Roanoke College, Trinity University (Texas) and Clark University (Massachusetts) on November 18-19.

Bob Ward Works With the USA Volleyball Team

Bob Ward, heal trainer, was selected to work and travel for the second consecutive year with the USA Volleyball Junior National Team at the NORCECA Zone Championships in Havana, Cuba, from August 12-20. The tournament is a qualifier for the 2000 world championships.

The USA Volleyball Junior National Team is a developmental team in the USA Volleyball program that reported to the USA Olympic Training Facility in Lake Placid, New York, on July 24. Bob worked with a squad that is made up of 22 high school seniors and college freshmen from around the country. The Junior National Team is the third step in the USA Volleyball program. As high school freshmen and sophomores, the youths compete in the High Performance Camp and move onto the Boys' Youth National Training Team as high school juniors and seniors. After competing on the Junior National team, they are then eligible to compete for the USA Volleyball National Team and the USA Olympic squad.

Faculty/Administrative Staff Activities

This spring, Glenn H. Asquith Jr., professor of pastoral theology on the Van and Katherine Merle-Smith Fund, attained certification as a National Certified Counselor through the National Board for Certified Counselors, the largest counselor credentialing organization in the United States. The NBCC credential is the standard required in most states to become a Licensed Professional Counselor. This is significant for Moravian Seminary's M.A.P.C. program, which is now seeking accreditation as a counselor education program that leads to NBCC certification.

Amy Baehr, assistant professor of philosophy and chair of the Department of Philosophy, attended the American Association of Philosophy Teachers Workshop/Conference in Milwaukee, August 2-6. In addition, a book review by Amy will be coming out in the next issue of Hypatia: A Journal of Feminist Philosophy. Amy reviewed a collection of essays entitled "The Oxford Amnesty Lectures: Women's Voices, Women's Rights."

Rita Berk, catalog and technical services librarian, Bonnie Falla, reference and public services librarian, Melanie Fiske, serials librarian, Dorothy Glew, reference and public services librarian, and Linda LaPointe, reference and public services librarian, attended the Spring Conference of the Lehigh Valley Chapter of the Pennsylvania Library Association at Northampton Community College on May 25. They heard presentations on legal research sources, evaluating and creating information quality on the Web, and political resources on the Web for this election year, among others. Dorothy, chair-elect of the chapter, was a member of the Conference Planning Committee.

Robert Brill, assistant professor of psychology, attended and presented two poster sessions at the meeting of the American Psychological Society in Miami, June 8-11. At the APS Institute on the Teaching of Psychology, Robert presented "Exploring the Psychology of Prejudice Using Short Stories," based upon the activity he developed for his social psychology course. Students explore social psychological themes of prejudice and explore their subtle prejudicial tendencies through their own active voice involved in the reading of Shirley Jackson's After You My Dear Alphonse, and William Melvin Kelley's A Good Long Sidewalk. In addition, Robert presented some of the preliminary results of a research project he conducted in the fall in his presentation, "Leadership and Spirituality: Exploring Relationships and Instrumentality in Role Contexts."

Clarke Chapman, professor of religion, participated in the 8th International Bonhoeffer Congress meeting in Berlin, August 17-26. Nearly 300 scholars from around the world gathered to study the life and theology of Dietrich Bonhoeffer, a pastor, university teacher, and theologian who was active in the conspiracy against Hitler and was martyred in April 1945. Plenary sessions included presentations in German or English by noted scholars such as Jean Bethke Elshtain of the University of Chicago and John de Gruchy of the University of Capetown. Special trips around Berlin toured sites of the Nazi terror and Jewish deportation, the house in which Bonhoeffer was arrested in 1943, a tour of Sachsenhausen concentration camp, a massive worship service in the Berliner Dom (cathedral), and a delightful concert of all the chamber music to which Bonhoeffer makes reference and commentary in his prison letters.

During the month of April, George Diamond, professor of English and chair of the Department of English, participated in Expanding Horizons 2000, an Adult Enrichment Series for Senior Citizens presented twice a year and sponsored by a variety of community and church groups. This spring's series had sessions on photography, history, nature, music, global concerns, and literature. George presented four different lectures on American prose writers of the nineteenth century. In addition, George participated in Partners in Education, a program sponsored by the Bethlehem Area Chamber of Commerce, on May 9. He attended a Liberty High School senior advanced placement English class and answered questions about college education and college life, the English major, and the Advanced Placement Test which the students were taking the next morning.

Dana Dunn, associate professor of psychology and chair of the Department of Psychology, wrote a chapter on social psychological issues in disability, which appeared in the Handbook of Rehabilitation Psychology, an edited volume dealing with the science and treatment of disability and chronic health conditions across the life span. The Handbook, which has 31 chapters written by leading researchers and practitioners in rehabilitation, was edited by Dr. Robert Frank of the University of Florida, and Dr. Timothy Elliott of the University of Alabama at Birmingham.

Bonnie Falla, reference and public services librarian, attended the annual conference of the American Theological Library Association in Berkeley, California, June 21-24. The meetings, round tables, interest groups, and paper presentations were held at the Graduate Theological Union Library and the seminars surrounding it. Bonnie attended "Access vs. Ownership" and "Partnering with Classroom Faculty" round tables, college/university and public services interest groups, and presentations on "Reference Services for a New Millennium" and "Building a Library Collection for a New Divinity School."

Melanie Fiske, serials librarian, Linda LaPointe, reference and public services librarian, and Dorothy Glew, reference and public services librarian, attended a conference of the Delaware Valley Chapter of the Association of College and Research Libraries at St. Joseph's University on May 19. The theme of the conference was "Improving Teaching and Learning through Collaboration." During the morning sessions, Lafayette College and Towson State University librarians discussed their work with instructional technologists and computer support staff to integrate technology into the curriculum. In the afternoon session, a librarian and faculty member from Penn State University at Berks described the ways they have collaborated to create instructional resources.

Dorothy Glew, reference and public services librarian, attended LOEX of the West 2000, June 6-9, on the campus of Montana State University at Bozeman. Some of the sessions she attended were "Teaching Internet Searching," "Problem-based Learning as a Vehicle for Teaching Information Literacy," several sessions on Web tutorials, and a session on library programs for first year students.

Linda Kvamme, assistant dean of continuing and graduate studies, received a partial scholarship to the Teacher's College of Columbia University. Linda is studying for a doctorate of education in adult and continuing education.

Marialuisa McAllister, professor of mathematics, attended the annual meeting of the Society for Industrial Applications of Mathematics, July 9-15, in Puerto Rico. Marialuisa, along with Etienne Kerre of the University of Ghent, organized a minisymposium entitled "Links Among Models of Uncertainty." She also presented the talk "Fuzzy Graphs" in which she demonstrated how basic concepts of linear algebra can be used to remedy the malfunction of any link or node in a network.

Jim Mackin, director of admission, has been named a member of the Pennsylvania Association of Secondary School and College Admission Counselors Admission Practices Committee. This committee monitors the admission practices of member colleges under the guidelines of the association's Statement of Principles of Good Practice and reports to the National Association for College Admission Counseling.

John D. Rossi III, assistant professor of accounting, was selected by Dalton Publications, to participate as one of their featured professionals within the "Professional Focus" section of a new textbook entitled Fundamentals of Financial Planning. The section will include John's biography, photograph, and an article authored by him, which provides a real world focus on the topic of choosing form of business entity.

Two research papers by Doris Schattschneider, professor of mathematics, appeared in two separate journals. The first, entitled "Unilateral and Equitransitive Tilings by Squares," appeared Discrete and Computational Geometry, in a special issue published to mark the seventieth birthday of Branko Grünbaum, a geometer who has encouraged and influenced Doris's work. The second, "Tiling the Pentagon," was joint work with Ren Ding of China and Tudor Zamfirescu of Germany in honor of the seventieth birthday of geometer Ludwig Danzer. This appeared in the journal Discrete

1999-2000 Monday Roundtable Conclude

The Alumni Association of Moravian College wishes to express thanks to all presenters of the 1999-2000 Monday Roundtable program. Attendance at these lectures is growing to include a number of community people in addition to our faithful Moravian alumni friends. Each of the presentations proved to be a unique experience that was received enthusiastically by a very appreciative and supportive audience, both for the speaker and for Moravian College.

Lecturers during the 1999-2000 series were:

James P. West

"Brazil Emerging: What an Economist Sees in Ipanema"

Janet A. Sipple

"Journey Down Under to Australia"

Clarke G. Chapman

"Crossroads of Early Christianity"

Mike Seidl

"Reflections on Living Abroad: Breaking Bread with a Bearded Lady"

Rosalind Remer

"Update: Making a Home for the Constitution"

The Association is currently scheduling the Monday Roundtable fall series. If you are interested in giving a future presentation, please call Marie Mayer, administrative assistant in public relations, at extension 7880.

The Writing Center is Open and Ready to Serve

The Writing Center, located on the first floor of Zinzendorf Hall, in room 102, opened for business on Monday, September 11 at 2:00 p.m. The of operation are:

Sunday	7:00-11:00 p.m.
Monday	2:00-4:00 p.m. and 7:00-11:00 p.m.
Tuesday	1:00-4:00 p.m. and 7:00-10:00 p.m.
Wednesday	1:00-4:00 p.m. and 7:00-11:00 p.m.
Thursday	1:00-3:00 p.m. and 7:00-11:00 p.m.
Closed Friday and Saturday

Please encourage any student who is having difficulty with his or her writing to schedule an appointment with a tutor either by stopping in or by calling extension 1592 during business hours. If necessary, you can send students a Writing Center referral form (available in the Writing Center) to compel them to seek help. You will receive written reports from the tutors on the students' attendance and progress. Please remember that these reports include space for your return comments and suggestions, which the tutors do appreciate. Professors report that most of their students who use the Writing Center show noticeable improvement in their writing skills.

Science, Psychology, and Sociology in proximity to each other promotes the College's multidisciplinary efforts, while proximity to the classrooms will provide for easy student/faculty interaction on a one-to-one basis. Small conference or breakout rooms will lend themselves to small group discussions and seminars.

This academic complex is a "campus-wide" effort, which has brought together all campus constituencies to try to make this a reality over the next four years: the Trustees, the President's Office, the Academic Deans' Office, Facilities Services, CIT, the Finance Office, the Enrollment/Admissions Office, the Student Affairs Office, the Institutional Advancement Office, Media Services, and the Alumni Association. The College is now working with architects and project management firms to translate our collective vision a reality that we can successfully market to potential donors, as the keystone for the institution's campaign.

Next Steps

As office spaces become available in the renovated connector, relocations will occur, and the campus community will be kept informed.

While current office relocations have been challenging to students, staff, and faculty, all functions can and will continue. Relocation sites of student-sensitive services have been especially chosen to keep them accessible to students. Everyone involved is grateful to the campus community for its cooperation and perseverance as we keep "Moravian on the Move!"

TIAA-CREF To Visit Moravian's Campus

Representatives from TIAA-CREF will be on campus on Thursday, October 19, in the HUB Recreation Room and will present two different types of seminars. The first will occur at 9:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m., and is entitled "How Well Do You Know Your Retirement Plan?" The second will occur at 11:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m., and is entitled "Retirement Distribution Flexibilities." Each session will last approximately 45 minutes.

TIAA-CREF Financial Planners will be here on Monday, November 6, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. for individual private consultations. Both the Air Products Room and the Reinhart Room have been reserved for this use. Contact Carol Meixell in human resources at extension 1527 if you are interested in setting up a private consultation.

After his retirement in 1984, Lloyd sustained a strong interest in the College. He attended meetings of the Survivors Club and the Retired Faculty Association. He could also be found at Faculty Coffee meeting with young faculty, exchanging ideas with them, and hearing about the challenges they were facing.

A memorial service was held on Tuesday, September 12, at 11:30 a.m., in Borhek Chapel.

United States Holocaust Memorial Museum Trip Planned

The 6th annual bus trip to Washington, D.C., has been scheduled for Saturday, September 30. The trip, open to all students, faculty, staff, family members, and friends, will depart from the HUB at 6:50 a.m. and return at approximately 10:30 p.m. Participants will have free time in Washington for sightseeing and dinner, and will also have a chance to tour the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum at 11:30 a.m. Round-trip cost is $30.00 per person and reservations are on a first-come basis. For more information or to make a reservation, please call Hans Wuerth, professor of German and tour leader, at extension 1395, or call Kathy Burkert, secretary to the Departments of Mathematics and Foreign Language, at extension 1335.

Family Day at Moravian College set for September 16

Family and friends of Moravian College students will get a chance to experience campus life Saturday, September 16, during the college's annual Family Day.

The day's events begin with a morning "coffee session" at which students and their families can chat with college administrators. Following the session and a welcome by President Rokke, Family Day participants will attend one of several presentations on topics, including "Academic Opportunities beyond the Classroom," "From a Distance: How to Support Your Student's Life and Career Planning," and "Back to the Future: A Look Inside the Classroom."

A festive lunch will be held in Johnston Hall featuring a Mexican Fiesta and the sounds of a mariachi band. After lunch, students and families are invited to take in the action as Moravian's football team plays Albright College at 1:00 p.m. The women's tennis team hosts Franklin & Marshall and the field hockey team takes on Messiah College at noon. The women's soccer team battles Haverford College at 3:30 p.m., and the volleyball team plays Muhlenberg at 6:00 p.m.

For those who prefer culture over sports, the Mexican Independence Day Festival will be held in Foy Concert Hall from noon to 4:00 p.m. The festival is sponsored by the Mexican Cultural Center of Philadelphia and the Moravian College Music Institute. The fourth annual Mexican Independence Day Festival at Moravian will feature a variety of performances showcasing regional Mexican dances and folk songs and will include the official ceremony of El Grito de Delores or "Cry for Independence."

The day's activities conclude with a Mass in Borhek Chapel and a Family Night dinner in the HUB Pavilion featuring a concert performance by Dave Binder, a storyteller, comedian, and songwriter. Binder has become a "tradition" on many college campuses throughout the country. Named Entertainer of the Year on the college circuit for ten years running, he has delighted his audiences with a repertoire showcasing the best of James Taylor, Simon and Garfunkel, favorite TV theme songs and much more.

For registration information on Family Day, contact the College's information desk at extension 1491.

Joseph Shosh, instructor of education, wrote an article entitled "Much Ado about Negotiation," which appeared in the July issue of English Journal, a publication of the National Council of Teachers of English. The article describes a Shakespeare curriculum that Joseph created along with the advanced dramatics students at Bethlehem's Freedom High School.
