
FACULTY POSTING: Assistant Professor - Department of Sociology and Anthropology

The Department of Sociology and Anthropology at Moravian College invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin in August 2018. We seek applicants who can contribute to our department's core courses, especially in areas of Social Inequality and Human Services. Candidates whose scholarship and teaching interests have a transnational focus are strongly encouraged to apply. The successful candidate should complement, but not overlap, existing faculty's teaching and regional expertise within the department. The faculty member would further be expected to support the college's goal of providing students with a liberal arts education, including contributing to the general education curriculum and periodically teaching First-Year Writing Seminar.

All positions are subject to budget availability.

TO APPLY: Applicants are requested to submit a letter of application, CV, a writing sample, a statement of teaching philosophy and, if relevant, evidence of undergraduate teaching effectiveness, as one document to searchsociology@moravian.edu. Please arrange to have three letters of reference sent under separate cover.

Complete applications received before the deadline of October 4th, 2017 will be given full consideration.
